

A November to Remember

With so little momentous news in the world in the early weeks of November of 2020 (yes, I'm kidding), we at Barracuda Studios decided it would be a perfect time to release 10 new products.

Barracuda Studios is well known to be a go-to source for accurate wheels. We have covered many aircraft types in the past 10 years, but somehow, the early Me/Bf 109 wheels have been passed over. We have remedied that with highly detailed 109E/F wheels in the 3 major scales.

Also on the Messerschmitt 109 front, we have new tall tailwheels as fitted to some late Bf 109G and K production batches in 1:48 and 1:32 scales. The long thin plastic struts found in kits are very prone to breakage, even in larger scales, but we have solved that problem with new high quality lost wax cast brass struts, complete with a choice of resin cast wheels and full color instructions.

1:32 modelers may also be pleased to see our new prop sets for the Bearcat and Skyraider. These are a huge improvement accuracy wise over the kit props, and being that they are huge props, are a very visible and reasonably simple upgrade!

We also have some nice wheel sets for the brand new 1:72 AZ deHavilland Hornet kits, as well as a wheels and outrigger upgrade set for the Yak-28 Firebar/Brewer kits in 1:48 scale, to round out this batch of new releases.

Here are the new products. We hope you will find them a worthy addition to your next model!

Happy Modelling,

Bf 109G/K Tall Tailwheel Set - 1:32

This set contains one accurate and very strong lost wax cast brass tall tail strut and two styles of detailed tailwheels in resin, both smooth and radial tread tire versions. This brass strut will not bend over time like white metal can. Can be fit to all late model Bf 109G/K kits in 1:32 scale. A quick and easy upgrade that will assure no more broken tailwheels.
